POPIS

The ground floor needs partial renovation, as part of its structure and elements are in good condition. The original carpentry is classic in style and requires updating, but the overall structure of the property is solid and stable, ensuring a firm foundation for any renovation or extension project. One of the main attractions of this property is its extraordinary urban potential: there is the possibility of building up to four additional floors plus an attic, making it an exceptional opportunity for developers. This building capacity allows for the design of a modern apartment building, a tourist residence or a luxury complex, maximising profitability and taking advantage of its privileged location by the sea. Thanks to its strategic location —in a well-established, quiet area with easy access to shops, transport and services— this property is a safe investment with great future prospects. In short, this second-line beach house is a real estate gem with endless possibilities: a solid structural foundation, an unbeatable setting and a building potential that is hard to find nowadays. Ideal both for building your dream home and for developing a highly profitable project by the sea.
