DESCRIPTION

La Florida is perfect for exploration of all that has made the Orihuela Costa such a favourite with the British public, yet without the tourist hordes and strong British influences which have diluted the Spanish culture in so many resorts along the coast.The town of La Florida has everything you could need for a holiday or as a place to live. There are a number of large supermarkets, which makes stocking the shelves easy. There are also a range of excellent little bars and restaurants to investigate.La Florida is excellently positioned to take advantage of the warm, blue waters of the Mediterranean and the fine golden sands which line the boundary between land and sea. As well as spending many lazy days with the sand between your toes and the sun on your face, you can arrange and enjoy a vast range of water sports from the beach's as well.La Florida is hugely popular for golfers. The village could not be better placed for a golf holiday as the world famous trio of golf courses, Villamartin, Campoamor and Las Ramblas are within just a few minutes drive of La Florida, and there are plenty of others in the region to choose from.
