Investment Potential – Why? With tourism on the Costa Cálida growing steadily, beachfront properties like this offer strong capital appreciation and rental income potential. The area is in high demand during both the summer and winter seasons, thanks to: - Year-round mild climate (over 300 sunny days per year) - Therapeutic waters of the Mar Menor (popular with retirees and health tourism) - Strong interest from international buyers – particularly from Northern and Eastern Europe - Limited beachfront land availability, making properties like this rare You can manage rentals independently or through a property management service – ideal for short-term stays and holiday rentals. Prices, Availability, and Payment Plans Prices start at €519,000 for spacious 2-bedroom apartments with large terraces and sea views. 3-bedroom penthouses and corner units are available upon request.
