At the heart of it is the naya — a covered terrace with beamed ceiling, travertine floor and ceiling fans, open to the sun and sheltered from the north wind by the house itself, making it usable year round. Two living rooms sit on two levels: the upper one opens onto the naya, the lower one steps straight out onto the pool terrace and can be closed off as a self-contained guest level. Finishes throughout are travertine, lime plaster, natural stone, bronze window profiles, solid timber and marble.Behind the familiar facade comes an entirely new technical foundation. The house becomes fully electric, with a heat pump, water-based underfloor heating and a climate and ventilation system on every floor. The electrical installation is renewed in full, as is the pipework: flexible water lines instead of copper, hot and cold, insulated along their entire run.The facade is engineered to match: 8 cm of external wall insulation on a 20 cm concrete wall, completed on the inside with mineral wool and a lining wall. Aluminium window frames with insulating double safety glazing seal the exterior. The objective is an A energy rating.At the far end of the pool, a separate pool house is fully equipped in its own right: summer kitchen with grill, bar in handmade tile, wood-fired pizza oven, sauna and hammam. The 2,000 m² plot holds an established Mediterranean garden with a mature olive tree and palms, and parking for seven vehicles between the enclosed garage and covered carport.At a glance• 5 bedrooms · 5 bathrooms · 3 guest WCs• 2 living rooms, one with direct pool access• Open kitchen with marble worktop and island, dining area• Covered naya for dining and lounging• Pool house: bar, summer kitchen, pizza oven, sauna, hammam• External SATE insulation to the full envelope, energy label A targeted• Underfloor heating throughout, air conditioning with per-room control• 2,000 m² plot, cul-de-sac, no through traffic, Montgó views• Garage, carport, parking for 7 vehiclesViewings by appointment.
