Description

There are houses that are not only built with stone, wood, or blueprintsâ they are built with stories. This home was born from the love of a family, from a dream shared between two people who, in 2001, bought a plot at the foot of the mountains to create their refuge, their home. In 2005, they made it a reality: a solid, beautiful house with character, designed to grow, to gather, to enjoy. From the very first step onto the land, you can feel itâs no ordinary house. Every corner shows care, every room radiates harmony. On the ground floor, a semi-finished apartment awaits new ideas: a space for guests, for working from home, or for a child to start their independence. From here, you access the jewel of the outdoors: a cozy summer kitchen, a pool with mountain views, and a terrace perfect for sunsets that stop time. The main floor was the heart of the home: three bedrooms, a large kitchen where family meals were prepared, and a soulful living room where laughter and life were shared. On the top floor, the future is shaped as you wish: a workspace, independent apartment, creative spaceâ all under sloping ceilings that look out to the horizon with a calm only nature can offer. This house was a home, a refuge, a place of growth. Now it seeks someone to write the next chapter. And if youâre one of those who feel the energy of a place as soon as you enterâ this house will speak to you.
